SHOES—NAY BROTHERS.

A PLEA FOR THE SMALL BOY.

Respect His Feelings.

Children are apt to be more sensitive over the appearance of their feet than grown people are, and one reason why they are so destructive with their footwear is that they feel a pardonable grudge against some of the unsightly shoes that are imposed upon them, and this is aggravated when they are subjected to the additional discomfort of a bad fit. It shows an indifference akin to cruelty to assume that anything is good enough for boys; and when we consider that nice looking shoes can be had for very little money, this indifference becomes simply unpardonable.

We have some very slightly shoes for the little men made and look just like father's. Guaranteed not to crack. If they rip we repair at our expense.

Reliable shoes from a reliable store.

BARE-FACED FAKE

The Evening Paper's Assertion that President Graham of

THE AETNA-STANDARD COMPANY

WOULD BECOME THE HEAD OF THE TIN-PLATE TRUST NOW FORMING — MR. GRAHAM ASKS THE INTELLIGENCER TO DENY EMPHATICALLY THE TRUTH OF THE PUBLICATION — HE FEELS SURPRISE AT SUCH APPALLING UNTRUTHFULNESS.

Last evening an evening paper started the public with the assertion that "Mr. W. T. Graham may become the head of the tin plate combine." Naturally the story attracted attention, and well posted people who thought they knew all that was brewing in connection with the big combine, in which one or more of the local concerns will probably be interested, were surprised.

Last night, Mr. Graham asked the Intelligencer to publish the following:

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR:—My amazement on seeing my name in large type at the head of an Evening News column to-night, and the mortification felt on reading the matter that followed cannot be expressed in printable terms. It is surprising that so many misstatements could be collected or imagined by a newspaper reporter, and I beg room in the Intelligencer for a brief denial of such of them as have to do with me personally.

First—I am not a member of the syndicate now attempting to consolidate the tin mills, and do not even know beyond mere surmise the gentlemen composing it. I have not been asked for my approval of anything contemplated by the syndicate and have only been consulted by its representatives when asked to secure the option from the companies in which I was interested, and to aid in one or two others.

Second—It is well understood among manufacturers that the head of the new company is to be a gentleman now president of the Tin Plate Manufacturers' Association, and holding among the largest, if not the very largest, interest in the new company, and I know of no responsible offers of other positions; none has been made to me.

Third—My frequent absence from home has been strictly on account of the Aetna-Standard Iron & Steel Company, with the exception of two short trips to Pittsburgh on the same errand as took all other manufacturers of the central west, to confer in connection with the consolidation.

Summing the matter up, I have been given prominence that is not justified by the facts, and so given, it is exceedingly offensive. W. T. GRAHAM.

Wheeling, November 21.

The gentlemen who will take the principal parts are named below:

THE COKE PLANT

At Riverside Started—An Important Industrial Addition.

The Riverside coke plant, which has been in course of erection for about eighteen months, was started on its way yesterday morning. The entire plant was not put in operation, but it is expected that within a week every part will be in full blast. Yesterday's partial start marks an important stage in Wheeling's industrial history, for the Riverside boasts of the only coke plant in this state and section, and its cost has been estimated at not less than $250,000.

A peculiar fact about the coke plant is that it has to be kept fired up after once started, for by the laws of expansion and contraction great damage to the ovens, furnaces and walls would result were the fires to be allowed to go out. The Riverside will utilize the by-products of the coke, setting gas, ammonia and tar. It is said that by the contract with the Syracuse firm, which built the plant, that the plant is to be run one year on trial before taken on the contractor's hands.
